

Wheel Balancing

To compensate for mass variations due to construction tolerances in the vehicle tyres and disc wheels, newly installed wheels must be balanced. Imbalance can lead to radial runout and steering vibration, which in turn causes increased wear of the wheel bearings, steering train parts and tyres.